

Your background or artwork should 'continue' out past the edges of the box outline, similar to that shown by the green areas. Since printing is not an exact science, all printing companies require this extra 'bleed' of ink to ensure that if there is any slight bounce or movement during the die cutting stage, your artwork will always print right to the edges, for that clean professional look.

Make sure you delete the green areas!

Please DO NOT change the document size or move any die components or your artwork will NOT FIT our die and extra charges WILL apply.
